RECOMMENDED ORDER OF SPECIAL DEPUTY

TO: Magnus Hines
Appeals Manager,
Reemployment Assistance Program
DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

This matter comes before the undersigned Special Deputy pursuant to the Petitioner's protest of the Respondent's determination dated April 22, 2014.

After due notice to the parties, a telephone hearing was held on September 15, 2014. The Petitioner, represented by its president, appeared and testified.

The record of the case, including the recording of the hearing and any exhibits submitted in evidence, is herewith transmitted. Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law were not received.

ISSUE: Whether services performed for the Petitioner constitute employment pursuant to §443.036(19); 443.036(21); 443.1216, Florida Statutes.

Findings of Fact:

1. The Petitioner, Ann Weller, CPA, P.A., is a corporation which operates the accounting practice of Ann Weller, a Certified Public Accountant, located in Coral Gables, Florida.
2. In 2012 the Petitioner used the bookkeeping services offered by an individual, David Durbin, who operated a bookkeeping business from his home located in Okeechobee, Florida.
3. David Durbin performed the bookkeeping services for the Petitioner on an as-needed basis. When the Petitioner had a need for bookkeeping services the Petitioner's president contacted David Durbin and mailed the source documents to him. David Durbin performed the work from his own location using his own computer and QuickBooks software. Upon completion of the work David Durbin sent a copy of the client's file to the Petitioner and billed the Petitioner for the services performed at the rate of $30 per hour.

4. The Petitioner did not withhold any payroll taxes from the pay and did not provide any fringe benefits such as paid holidays. At the end of 2012 the Petitioner reported the total amount paid to David Durbin during the year on a 1099 form. During 2012 the Petitioner paid David Durbin $1,440.00.
5. The Department of Revenue selected the Petitioner for an audit of the Petitioner's books and records for 2012 to verify whether items such as bonuses, tips, sick leave, casual labor, sub-contractors, payment to corporate officers and staff, and excess wage computations were reported correctly.
6. On April 22, 2014, the Department of Revenue issued a Notice of Proposed Assessment reclassifying the $1,440.00 paid to David Durbin as wages resulting in additional tax due in the amount of $21.74. The Petitioner filed a timely protest by letter dated April 29, 2014.

Conclusions of Law:

7. The issue in this case, whether bookkeeping services performed for the Petitioner by David Durbin constitute employment subject to the Florida Reemployment Assistance Program Law, is governed by Chapter 443, Florida Statutes. Section 443.1216(1)(a)2., Florida Statutes, provides that employment subject to the chapter includes service performed by individuals under the usual common law rules applicable in determining an employer-employee relationship.
8. The Supreme Court of the United States held that the term "usual common law rules" is to be used in a generic sense to mean the "standards developed by the courts through the years of adjudication." United States v. W.M. Webb, Inc., 397 U.S. 179 (1970).
9. The Supreme Court of Florida adopted and approved the tests in 1 Restatement of Law, Agency 2d Section 220 (1958), for use to determine if an employment relationship exists. See Cantor v. Cochran, 184 So.2d 173 (Fla. 1966); Miami Herald Publishing Co. v. Kendall, 88 So.2d 276 (Fla. 1956); Magarian v. Southern Fruit Distributors, 1 So.2d 858 (Fla. 1941); see also Kane Furniture Corp. v. R. Miranda, 506 So.2d 1061 (Fla. 2d DCA 1987). In Brayshaw v. Agency for Workforce Innovation, et al. 58 So.3d 301 (Fla. 1st DCA 2011) the court stated that the statute does not refer to other rules or factors for determining the employment relationship and, therefore, the Department is limited to applying only Florida common law in determining the nature of an employment relationship.
10. Restatement of Law is a publication, prepared under the auspices of the American Law Institute, which explains the meaning of the law with regard to various court rulings. The Restatement sets forth a nonexclusive list of factors that are to be considered when judging whether a relationship is an employment relationship or an independent contractor relationship.
11. 1 Restatement of Law, Agency 2d Section 220 (1958) provides:
 - (1) A servant is a person employed to perform services for another and who, in the performance of the services, is subject to the other's control or right of control.
 - (2) The following matters of fact, among others, are to be considered:
 - (a) the extent of control which, by the agreement, the business may exercise over the details of the work;
 - (b) whether or not the one employed is engaged in a distinct occupation or business;
 - (c) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the employer or by a specialist without supervision;
 - (d) the skill required in the particular occupation;
 - (e) whether the employer or the worker supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work;
 - (f) the length of time for which the person is employed;
 - (g) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job;

- (h) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the employer;
 - (i) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relation of master and servant;
 - (j) whether the principal is or is not in business.
12. Comments in the Restatement explain that the word “servant” does not exclusively connote manual labor, and the word “employee” has largely replaced “servant” in statutes dealing with various aspects of the working relationship between two parties.
 13. In Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services v. Department of Labor & Employment Security, 472 So.2d 1284 (Fla. 1st DCA 1985) the court confirmed that the factors listed in the Restatement are the proper factors to be considered in determining whether an employer-employee relationship exists. However, in citing La Grande v. B&L Services, Inc., 432 So.2d 1364, 1366 (Fla. 1st DCA 1983), the court acknowledged that the question of whether a person is properly classified an employee or an independent contractor often can not be answered by reference to “hard and fast” rules, but rather must be addressed on a case-by-case basis.
 14. In this case David Durbin performed the work from his own location using his own computer and computer software. The Petitioner did not supervise David Durbin nor require him to work specified hours. The evidence reveals that the Petitioner was not concerned with how the work was performed but was concerned only with the finished product.
 15. Whether a worker is an employee or an independent contractor is determined by measuring the control exercised by the employer over the worker. If the control exercised extends to the manner in which a task is to be performed, then the worker is an employee rather than an independent contractor. In Cawthon v. Phillips Petroleum Co., 124 So 2d 517 (Fla. 2d DCA 1960) the court explained: Where the employee is merely subject to the control or direction of the employer as to the result to be procured, he is an independent contractor; if the employee is subject to the control of the employer as to the means to be used, then he is not an independent contractor.
 16. It is determined that the bookkeeping services performed for the Petitioner by David Durbin do not constitute insured employment.

Recommendation: It is recommended that the determination dated April 22, 2014, be REVERSED.

Respectfully submitted on October 13, 2014.

R. O. Smith, Special Deputy
Office of Appeals
